To Whom It May Concern:

Recently our church congregation had the pleasure of being entertained by Comedian Rex Havens during our dinner/auction on April 26, 2008. Every year Blessed Sacrament Church holds a weekend "Fellowship Festival" to bring parishioners together in fun and fellowship and also to raise money to reduce our parish debt for new construction. The Saturday night dinner/auction was capped by Rex Havens, Comedian Extraordinaire!

What a special and memorable night! Rex wowed the crowd with his hilarious routine and they hung on his every word, breaking out in large guffaws of laughter at his unerring ability to hone in on the glaring and humorous differences between men and women.

Prior to Rex's performance the live auction took place and the chatter and table noise of approximately 180 dinner guests was constant and irritating to the auctioneer. After Rex was introduced, however, and began his routine, the crowd quickly became riveted by his monologue and hung on his every word! The only noise became the huge laughs and hoots from the audience, which adored Rex. In fact, when he finished, the crowd spontaneously stood and gave him a standing ovation! We were all sorry to see him go and have his entertainment come to an end. So many people who attended have raved to me about Rex and how funny and great he was. He was outstanding and I can only HIGHLY recommend him to other groups.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Georgia Glynn
